

A diagram illustrating document sizes. It features a large white rectangle representing the document area, enclosed by a thin orange border. This rectangle is itself inside a larger white area, which is enclosed by a thick red border. In the top right corner of the white area, there are two labels: 'Full Bleed Size' in a red box and 'Document Trim Size' in an orange box. A red line extends from the 'Full Bleed Size' label to the right edge of the red border. An orange line extends from the 'Document Trim Size' label to the right edge of the orange border.
